FOREWORD

It was September 2, 1957. There was a newness in the air--and we were freshmen, awkward, inquisitive; uncertain, yet eager.

The memories of those first days at Southeastern General Hospital (then Robeson County Memorial) are a medley of fun and fears, of beauty and of friendship, of perplexing problems and challenging opportunities.

We remember the people we grew to know and love--the halls we walked so many times--our progressing hospital and its beautiful grounds --the nurses' home--the many experiences we had.

And here within this world of medicine trays and bed pans, 3-11 and night duty, classes and tests, reference readings and American Journals of Nursing, we have lived and grown for three short years.

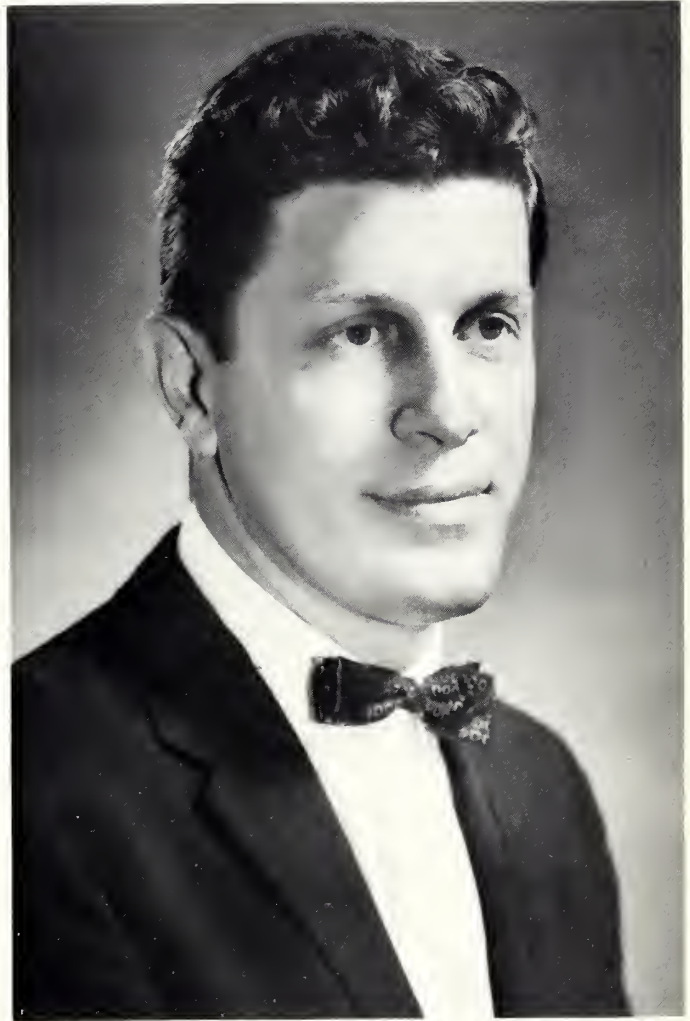

Against a backdrop of squabbles and friendships, of laughter and tears--our minds, bodies, and ideals have matured from day to day as swiftly as the seasons have passed.

The 1960 White Echo holds within its covers many of our cherished memories and friends. Even without it to remind us, how could we ever forget?

DEDICATION

Dr. Hugh A. McAllister

Dr. Jack E. Mohr

You have helped instill in us the desire and initiative to strive to succeed in our chosen profession. As a small token of our gratitude and appreciation for your kindness, patience, knowledge, understanding and interest, we the seniors of Southeastern General Hospital proudly dedicate this 1960 Edition of the White Echo to you -- Dr. Hugh A. McAllister and Dr. Jack E. Mohr.

A NURSE'S ABIDING TREASURES

There are treasures that pass away,
And treasures that endure.
I have treasures that time cannot turn to dust and ashes;
I have treasures that abide,
Because I follow in the train of all who have helped the weak and
Lifted up the fallen,
Because I have inherited the riches
And stand in the tradition of nursing.

I have the abiding treasure of a knowledge of
The ministry of the sick;
For I have learned how
To help God heal
The pain-racked bodies of men.

I have the abiding treasure of the high privilege of
A ministry to the souls of men;
For I see them in times of crisis;
I stand close by when they go through
The valley of the shadow.
And it is thus my abiding treasure that when they cry out for help, and
Understanding, and sympathy
That I, by my faith, and by my love, can Speak peace to their souls, and
Take them by the hand as they walk
Through the dark vale.

Men will not always understand, or thank me.
But what I do,
I do not for praise or gratitude.
I do it for the love of men,
And for the love of God in whose image they are made.

With these opportunities to bless and to serve
I have also the abiding treasure of the love of God,
To sustain and to keep me.
That love will bear all things, and never fail.
So, by God's grace, I shall be strong enough, and wise enough,
And this is enough.

These are my treasures:
The opportunity to minister to the sick.
The privilege to speak to the souls of men.
The love of God to support me as I follow my profession.
And this is more than enough. It is a high calling, and enduring wealth.

I have abiding treasures that moth cannot corrupt,
Nor rust destroy,
Nor thieves steal away.
And they are mine; for they will abide forever.

ODE TO STUDENT NURSES

Student nurses are found everywhere--underneath, on top of, running around, jumping over, slithering past patients' beds.

Doctors yell at them, head nurses criticize them, interns tolerate them, and residents overlook them, but patients love them.

A student nurse is courage under a cap, a smile in snowy white, strength in starched skirts, energy that is endless, the best of young womanhood, and a modern Florence Nightingale.

Just when she is gaining poise and prestige, she drops a glass, breaks a syringe, or steps on a doctor's foot.

A student nurse is composite. She eats like a team of hungry interns, and works like the whole nursing staff put together. She has the speed of a gazelle, the endurance of a flagpole sitter, and the abilities of Florence Nightingale, Linda Richards, and Clara Barton, all rolled into one.

To the head nurse, she has the stability of mush, the fleetness of a snail, the mentality of a mule, and is held together by starch, adhesive tape, and strained nerves. To an alumnae, she will never work as hard, carry more trays, make more beds, or scrub on more cases than her predecessors.

A student nurse likes days off, boys her own age, the O.R., affiliations, certain doctors, pretty clothes, her roommate, mom and dad, and yes, her school of nursing.

She's not much at working 3-11, days off with class, alarm clocks, early morning classes, or eating grits and sweet apples every Tuesday.

No one else can cram into one little head the course of a disease, the bones comprising the pelvis, what to do when a patient is in shock, how to insert a Levine tube (usually at 3 a.m.), plus the ten top tunes on the Hit Parade.

No one else gets so much pleasure from straightening a wrinkled sheet or wetting a pair of parched lips.

A student nurse is a wonderful creature--you can criticize her but you can't discourage her. You can hurt her feelings, but you can't make her quit.

Might as well admit it, whether you are a head nurse, doctor, alumnae, or patient. . . Who is your personal representative of the hospital, your living symbol of faith and sympathetic care?

She may not be a beauty queen, but she is an example of the American way.

She is not judged by her race, religion, or social standards; she is measured by a professional yardstick that measures her ability to make a bed, apply a bandage or sacrifice her time to ease the pain of a patient, simply for the satisfaction of a job well done. She is hard working, a determined young girl doing her best for her school of nursing and hospital.

Whenever she becomes discouraged or the lamp gets too heavy, she should remember that there is a reward waiting for her; because surely some of God's angels wear white caps instead of halos and carry medicine trays instead of harps.

CLASS HISTORY

On September 2, 1957, twenty-one young Florence Nightingale hopefuls entered the hallowed halls of Robeson County Memorial Hospital. We, the seniors, were among that group. Little did we know about what would become of us in the next three years. It didn't take us long to discover how little we knew about anything! We felt a little unwanted and in everybody's way. We were skeptical of the upperclassmen and just plain scared of everyone else. This was a new and different world to us.

We were initiated by and to the joy of our upperclassmen at a party in our honor (??) during our first week here. We received the full treatment--swallowing raw oysters tied to strings, drinking milk from baby bottles, having diapers pinned on us. It was all in fun.

Our class was the first in this school to begin training without a probation period. We donned the full uniform and cap soon after we arrived, which boosted our confidence a great deal.

We never knew so many classes, lectures, reference readings, tests, and nursing care studies could be crammed into one year. It took awhile to become accustomed to it.

We had many experiences during our first few months on duty that we won't forget. We were ignorant as could be, and tried so hard to give the opposite impression. It was a struggle.

Our first year wasn't all study and hard work. There were good times, too. We made many new acquaintances (and we've learned since that all the males seem to know when a new crew of nurses arrives). We became more familiar with the town and slowly learned our way around. Every Saturday, come rain, snow, sleet, or shine, we marched to town to window shop, go the drugstore, and sit through the double-feature and the last show at the movies.

We remember the Halloween party, the Christmas dances when it snowed, the picnic at White Lake, May Day festivities, and our many days of restriction.

All of a sudden a year had passed and we were juniors. Our class had dwindled down to twelve. Some couldn't make it, some decided they couldn't take it, and some just wanted to get married. Those of us who stayed had another big year in store for us.

We strutted around like peacocks when we received a prized possession, our capes. Our uniform was then complete. We were working an eight hour shift, getting a good taste of 3-11 and night duty. Classes continued--so did we; and time passed.

Soon it was time for Christmas parties again and more snow to add to the fun. (Remember the band getting snowbound?) Then it was Junior-Senior time. We planned and worked hard for a good party and dance, then the band didn't show up. Thank goodness for records! "Sea Cruise" made a big hit that night. Another May Day occurred and our theatrical performing was improving.

Three months of this year we spent at the "hill" becoming psychiatrically educated. We all found it to be an interesting and meaningful experience, as well as so much fun. We small town girls really got a kick out of the big city life.

Another year had passed, and we were seniors. At times we thought we'd never make it, but eight of us did. We added another (by transfer) to our class to make the grand total of nine.

Classes, reference readings, 3-11 and night duty continued. We often became weary of work and study, but we realized that it was all worthwhile and important to us.

The Christmas party was held without snow this time, but it was most enjoyable. We added a new one--a Valentine party in February with a queen and all the trimmings. The junior class honored us with a magnificent banquet and dance at Johnson's Restaurant. May Day had more meaning to us, for one of our classmates was queen. The program, practically a Broadway production, was even better than years before.

The name of our rapidly progressing hospital was changed, giving our class the privilege of being the first to graduate from Southeastern General.

Then there was the weekend our class took off for Myrtle Beach. It gave us all a short period of much needed relaxation, and we all thoroughly enjoyed it.

We began to review for State Board, and soon classes were over. We breathed a sigh of relief, for it looked as though we'd make it after all.

We buckled down to work on the annual then, selling ads, typing copy, labeling pictures--hard work, but it was fun. Summer passed and graduation time was here.

Our three years of training, leaving us with numerous memorable experiences and friends, ended and we were prepared for a lifetime profession to which we had become devoted. With a reminiscent glance into the past, we stood at the threshold of the future.

CLASS PROPHECY

Time: 1965

Place: Pinecrest Country Club

Occasion: Class reunion of the 1960 class of Southeastern General Hospital School of Nursing

Evening address:

Guest and former classmates, I wish to welcome you in behalf of our class. As you can see a lot of things have happened to our class in the past five years.

As the opening address for this evening I think it would be appropriate to review each of our classmates and give their present status. If each would stand as her name is called, it will help us to remember her.

First we have Donna Barbee. She was always a leader in our class and a big help as editor of our annual. She always enjoyed parties and social gatherings. It looks as if she has broadened her long search for the right man by joining the Air Force. Welcome home, Lt. Barbee.

Another classmate was Edna Chason. She was always the smart one in our class and tried to get things done before the deadline. Now I see that she has a new position at S. G. H. replacing Mrs. Norment who is retiring from her position as 7-3 supervisor.

Jane Lambert, a little brunette, was a transfer student to our school from Hamlet. She is back at Rockingham now where she is keeping house for her husband Bobby and working on the surgical division of Richmond County Memorial Hospital.

Lenora McCaskill was voted the wittiest in our class and certainly deserved it. She brightened many gloomy days for us with her unending sense of humor. Everyone enjoyed her spreading of cheer. At the present she finds herself enjoying commuting between Rockingham and Laurel Hill in her spare time, but most of her days are filled with her work at Scotland County Memorial Hospital.

Over at the table in the corner I see Muriel Meggs, except her name isn't Meggs anymore. We will always remember Muriel as our V.F.W. Queen and one of the first representatives to be sent from our school to the National Student Nurses Convention, which was held in Miami, Florida in 1960. Now Muriel is happy as a lawyer's wife in Minnesota. She and he are working hard to raise their little family.

Peggy Meggs, excuse me, Captain Meggs, just arrived from Hawaii by jet accompanied by her fiance who is a major. We shall always think of her as our May Queen and what a pretty queen she was. Peggy has been helping Uncle Sam since graduation by soaring high in jets with the Air Force. She spends her vacations doing one of the things she has always wanted to do--travel.

Now we have Anne Thompson. She has also changed her name. Anne was always well dressed and had a way of proving herself to be right when a disagreement came up. Now she and Jimmy are settled at Abbottsburg, where they have started their family. She seems to be very happy as a mother.

Blanche Wolfe was a classmate whom everyone loved. Her sweet disposition was admired by everyone who knew her. After graduation she went down east and now she is working as head nurse of Surgical division in the hospital at Sea Level, N. C.

I, Opal Suggs, was lucky enough to change my name before graduation. Now after three years of traveling with Roy and the Navy, we have settled with our family at Wake Forest where he is going to school. I'm enjoying my work in the nursery at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

I hope each of you will enjoy this little party and plan to be with us for our next reunion in 1970. Now if the band will play for us we'll all enjoy a dance.

Class Prophetess,
Opal Suggs

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

State of North Carolina
County of Robeson
Town of Lumberton

We the Senior Class of 1960 of Southeastern General Hospital School of Nursing, being of fairly sound bodies and with minds only slightly affected by three years of trails and tribulations, do declare this to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I

- Item I: To Southeastern General Hospital School of Nursing--We, the Senior Class, leave our matchless love and loyalty. May we strive to attain the high ideals for which it stands.
- Item II: To the Faculty--We wish to express our deepest appreciation for your interest and enduring patience with us during the three years we value so highly in our lives.
- Item III: To the students--We leave a few weary instructors, some well-used textbooks, 3-11 and night duty, well-worn uniforms (along with plenty of adhesive tape and safety pins), and volumes and volumes of American Journal of Nursing.

ARTICLE II

- Item I: I, Donna Barbee, leave my ability to date other girls' boy-friends and get by with it to Lou Taylor and Kay McKeithan.
- Item II: I, Edna Chason, leave my housecoat to Betty Scott in hopes that she will not forget to wear it when she patronizes the Pepsi machine.
- Item III: I, Jane Lambert, leave my ability to "cram" into one day eight hours of work, eight hours of class, eight hours of socializing and cat-nap in between to Maudine Moody.
- Item IV: I, Muriel Meggs, bearing the title "Class Detective", leave my curiosity to Esther Moore.
- Item V: We, Lenora McCaskill and Peggy Meggs, leave our title "the wustest housekeepers on the hall" to Cynthia O'Brien and Marie Holmes in hopes that they will not uphold the title as well as we.
- Item VI: I, Opal Suggs, leave for greener pastures.
- Item VII: We, Anne Thompson and Blanche Wolfe, leave all our Pepsi bottles in a bucket for Mrs. McGoogan.
